

The Daily Courant.

Saturday, July 17. 1703

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 24.

Vienna, July 11.

ON the 8th the Count de Lamberg went from hence with a secret Commission from the Emperor to Prince Lewis of Baden, and carries with him 40000 Florins in Gold, and Bills of Exchange for 50000 more: Count Heyfter is gone to Tyrol to take upon him the Command of the Imperial Troops that are in that Country; and his Brother is to joyn him with 4000 Croats: Mean time 'tis said the Troops of General Geschwind are posted on the Brenner, and that the Generals Vaubonne and Solari are on their March thitherward. The Bishop of Brixen has likewise summon'd the Hunters in his Diocess to draw together to oppose the Bavarians. 'Tis ill resented at this Court, that the Nobility of Tyrol should submit so hastily to the Elector of Bavaria. 'Tis said there will some further Alterations be made in our Ministry, at the Instance of the King of the Romans. The Defeat of the Hungarian Rebels at Mongatz is confirm'd.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated July 24.

They write from Brixen in the Country of Tyrol on the 11th, That the French and Bavarians having advanc'd near that City with a Detachment, to endeavour to possess themselves of it; were oblig'd to retire back again, finding the Place in a good Condition of Defence, and that it had receiv'd a Succour of Troops of the Militia of Bolzano and other Parts. Since which the Enemy have abandon'd Sterzingen, and the Pass of Luch; These Letters add, that the Militia of the Territories of Prutz and Landeck have knock'd on the head above 2000 of them with Stones in some narrow Passages, and taken Prisoners a French General, 50 Officers, 300 common Soldiers, and some Baggage. That on the 11th 1500 Dragoons detach'd from the Imperial Army in Italy pass'd by Brixen; that they were to be follow'd on the 12th by 2000 more; as also by 1500 Recruits from Carinthia; Which Troops being joyn'd by the Militia of the Country, will pursue the Bavarians over the Brenner.

From the Hague Gazette, dated July 23.

Letters from Ratisbon of the 15th advise, That the Elector of Bavaria came Post to the Army of the Marshal de Villars on the 10th, and has order'd 9000 of his Men to follow him out of Tyrol, where he has left only 4000 to secure his New Conquests.

The Margrave of Bareith, according to the Advices of the 15th from the Army of the Prince of Baden, has joyn'd that General, who has now 50000 effective Men under his Command. The Army of the Marshal de Villars, with what the Elector of Bavaria adds to it, will make but 38000 Men; for which reason he intrenches and fortifies his Camp more and more daily to avoid a Battle; but the Prince of Baden has made Batteries to Cannonade the Enemy's Camp a while, in order to attempt to force it in 2 several Places.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 24.

Frankfort, July 18. The Advices from Swabia tell us, That the great Army of the Imperialists commanded by Prince Lewis of Baden is encamp'd at Hauwfenheim; and the lesser Army under the Margrave of Bareith near Nordlingen; so near each other that they can joyn together in few hours. Some Letters from the Danube say, that the Prince of Baden with part of his Army would pass over that River, to cut off the Enemies Convoys of Provisions, while the Margrave of Bareith should continue in the Camp on this side intrench'd; and some pretend that the said Prince has already cross'd the Danube at Leicheym. The Troops of the Circle of Westphalia are arriv'd at the Neckar, and will march forwards to joyn General Thungen.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated July 24.

Frankfort, July 18. The 5 Prussian Regiments that were detach'd from the Blockade of Gelder, are advanc'd into the Neighbourhood of this City, and tomorrow will continue their March towards the Prince of Baden's Army: The new Succours of Dutch Troops are arriv'd in the Lines of Stollhoffen; from whence General Thungen has detach'd 5000 Men towards the Kintziger Dale to joyn the other Troops already there, in order to hinder the Army of the Duke of Burgundy from forcing the Passage of that Valley; which the French give out they will attempt to open a Communication with the Army of the Marshal de Villars. P. S. The Duke of Burgundy, with his Army, pass'd the Rhine at Fort Kehl on the 16th.

We learn by the last Letters from Switzerland, That the Duke de Vendome with his Army has joyn'd that commanded by the Prince de Vaudemont at San Benedetto, with Design to Besiege Mirandola; That the Malecontents of the Sevensnes increase daily in Number, make Excursions up to the Gates of Alets, Nismes and Montpellier, and seldom return without having gain'd some Advantage over the Royalists: And that 'tis observ'd they have lately got Money to buy Horses for mounting some of their Men.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 23.

By the Neutral Countries we have Letters from Paris of the 4th of this Month, which advise, that the last Post from Italy made no mention of the Detachment of 10, or 12000 Men which was said to be order'd to march to joyn the Elector of Bavaria in Tyrol under the command of Monsieur de Medavi or Bezons. They write from Languedoc, that notwithstanding the Disorders in which that Province is involv'd by the Malecontents of the Sevensnes, Preparations are making to keep the Fair of Beaucaire, tho' they are not free from Apprehensions of the Camisars, and therefore the Marshal de Montrevel, will, they say, keep a strict Guard at Pont St. Esprit. Since the Captain of the Marshal de Boufflers's Guards arriv'd with an Account of the Battle of Eckeren, 'tis given out, that of the Allies 4 or 5000 Men were lost in that Action, and of the French 1500; that the Collonels Seguiran, Courville, and the Count de Briant, were kill'd; and that Monsieur de Mortemar, the Chevalier de Bournonville, 4 Captains of the Walloon Guards, and divers Collonels and other Officers were wounded. The Duke de Guiche signaliz'd himself in that Action, and the King

King has complimented his Dutchess upon it. 'Tis said it was propos'd to that Duke to carry the News of the Battle to Court, but he declin'd the Office, saying, he came to the Army to act as a Soldier, and not to carry Messages as a Courier. Letters from Paris that came since these, inform us, That on the 6th the Marshal de Montrevel went away suddenly from Nismes, on some Advices that hasten'd his departure, and march'd with a Body of Troops towards Pont St. Esprit; on what Design is yet unknown.

From the Army of the Allies commanded by the Duke of Marlborough, encamp'd at Loenhout, July 23. On the 20th our Forrage Guard met with a Party of 20 of the Enemies that were Skulking near our Camp with design to steal Horses, of whom they took 3 Prisoners, 2 of which were dangerously wounded, and kill'd all the rest. This Morning we broke up from Vorselaer, march'd 9 Miles, and are encamp'd between West Wesel and Hoogstraten, having the Village of Brecht in our Front, and the Head Quarters at this Place; The Body of Troops commanded by General Slangenburg, having been augmented by 13 Battallions and 7 Squadrons of the Forces on the other side of the Schelde, will march to night from Lillo and joyn us tomorrow Morning; and then we shall march directly to the French and endeavour to bring them to a general Engagement. Part of our Army lyes now within a League of them; they continue in their Camp at St. Jop without their Lines. The Troops of the Allies that remain on the other side of the Schelde are gone into Garrison.

Letters from the Hague by this Post assure us, That the States General have sent positive Orders to their Principal Officers in the Army under the Duke of Marlborough, to concur with His Grace, if he judge it advisable to attack the French, even tho' they should retire within their Lines.

From the Leiden Courant, dated July 25.

Breda, July 23. To day at Noon the Hereditary Prince of Hesse Cassel, Lieutenant General Churchill, Lieutenant General Buloo, and other Officers went from hence to the Grand Army; at their going out of the Gates they were saluted with the Discharge of the Cannon on the Ramparts.

Hague, July 24. 'Tis said the States will give 100 Rixdollars for every Standard, Colours, and pair of Kettle-Drums, taken in the Action at Eckeren, to the Persons who took them. On the 21st arriv'd a Courier sent from Major General Goor with Letters from the Prince of Baden, in which that General desires a Reinforcement of the Dutch Infantry from Stolhoffen; the Courier is return'd with an Answer from the States, who ('tis said) are not willing to comply with that demand, lest the French should, on the departure of the Foot from Stolhoffen, take occasion to detach part of their Forces from the Rhine to the Netherlands.

Letters from Vienna say, that the Departure of the Archduke Charles for Holland in order to go to Portugal, is fix'd towards the middle of August.

London, July 16. A few days since Sir Stephen Fox was married to Mrs. Hope.
